

PERSPECTIVES ON EUCLID AND GEOMETRY

Lectures start at 7pm on Wednesdays through the month of June, and take place in Lecture Theatre 3 (lower floor) at the Mathematical Institute, University of Oxford (Andrew Wiles Building, Woodstock Road, Oxford OX2 6GG). All welcome!

6 June

Jeremy Gray (The Open University)

‘Non-Euclidean Geometry and the Historian of Mathematics’

13 June

Vicky Neale (University of Oxford)

‘A Mathematician Reads Euclid’

20 June

Stephen Johnston (University of Oxford)

‘The Body Beautiful: Euclid and Geometrical Solids in Renaissance Europe’

27 June

Lynn Gamwell (School of Visual Arts, New York)

‘Geometry in Modern and Contemporary Art’

This lecture series ties in with a display of Euclidean texts and related artefacts at Blackwell Hall, Weston Library, 19 May – 15 July 2018 [seeingeulid.org, launched on 19 May], organised by the AHRC-funded ‘Reading Euclid in Early Modern Britain and Ireland’ project [readingeuclid.org]. For further information, contact Benjamin Wardhaugh at benjamin.wardhaugh@history.ox.ac.uk.

Poster image: 15th-century manuscript of Euclid’s Elements, Bodleian Library, MS Savile 19, fol. 122r; edited in Photoshop by Yelda Nasifoglu.

Reading Euclid